A message from Alan

As of midnight last night, Parliament has been dissolved and I am no longer an MP but a prospective parliamentary candidate.

I will continue to keep you in touch and my office can still deal with any urgent casework or provide updates on ongoing cases.

As you know, Polling Day is on Thursday 12th December and is likely to be cold and dark.

Make sure you get your chance to have your say by signing up for a postal vote. You can do so online here.

Keep in touch with my campaign on Facebook here on twitter here or on my website here.

Best wishes

Alan Campbell
